

James F. Donohue, MD

Scientific Advisory Board Member

James F. Donohue, MD is a member of the Scientific Advisory Board at Altesa. Dr. Donohue is former Professor of Medicine, Division of Pulmonary Diseases and Critical Care Medicine, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Previously, Dr. Donohue served as the Director of the Clinical Group Pulmonary Diseases (1995-1998); and Chief of the Division of Pulmonary Diseases & Critical Care Medicine (2002-2011). Dr. Donohue's research interests include new therapeutics in chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, alpha-1 antitrypsin deficiencies, and asthma. He has previously served on the editorial advisory boards of numerous journals including COPD: Journal of Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease, Medscape Pulmonary Medicine, and Current Respiratory Medical Review. Dr. Donohue has extensive experience presenting data to the FDA Pulmonary and Allergy Advisory Committee and is a respected expert in clinical trials who also has participated on Drug Safety Monitoring Boards. He previously served as Chairman of the Foundation of the American Thoracic Society and is the recipient of the highest award of the ATS Foundation, "The Breathing for Life". He has also been named by Expertscape as one of the Top 10 Experts in COPD in the United States in 2019.